BAB. SEES LIGHT.

The Clouds That Hovered Over the Man of Many Offices Seem to Lift.

By American Press Association to the STAR.

St. Louis, Feb. 17.—Yesterday at 2 o'clock the defense actively entered upon the production of a line of evidence foreshadowed in the opening of Ex-Artillery General Williams in the morning.

Brigadier General Humphrey, Chief of the Engineer Corps, stationed at Washington, was the first witness called for the defense.

He testified to a long acquaintance with the defendant; also as to General Babcock's duties as Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds in Washington, in which position he has controlled an annual disbursement of about $400,000 during the past four years. In opinion of witness these duties are additional to those of the Engineer Corps, both as Engineer and disbursing officer.

The defendant has a high character as a gentleman. The cross-examination by District Attorney Dyer elicited the information that the disbursements by General Babcock are very largely for day work and not under contracts.

During the recess an extraordinary scene occurred before the Council. The arrival of Professor Smythe, of Andover, Massachusetts, who addressed Beecher, inquiring whether a letter had been received from Professor Phelps, of Andover. Beecher replied in the affirmative, and said the letter was now in the hands of the clerk of the Church.

The letter proposes that the Advisory Council and Plymouth Church consider and adopt means by which a mutual council of a smaller number should be called for the express purpose of investigating the question of Beecher's guilt or innocence of the charges against him. Smythe said he desired to correct an impression sought to be conveyed by Prof. Phelps' letter. It misrepresented the action of Andover Church, and he contended that the letter of Andover Church should be read before the delegates here. Mr. Beecher professed willingness provided Phelps' letter was placed before the Council, and said the Church should not be before the public misrepresented.

Mr. Beecher intimated that perhaps not more than five members of Andover Church were present at the meeting when the letter was prepared, and said he did not want a body like that—prejudiced, perhaps to try him.

Mr. Smythe replied that the insinuation that the Andover church meeting was a small affair, but refused to give any details of the meeting or who took part in it. He said Mr. Beecher had the letter that spoke for itself. Mr. Beecher said the action of Andover Church was irregular and unauthoritative. It had sent a letter to the Clerk of the Church, and not to the Church itself.

The exchange of sentiments upon this and other points was rapid and earnest. Smythe demanded that Beecher read the letter of Andover Church. Beecher replied that the letter was in the hands of the Clerk of the Church, and he could not comply. He appealed to Smythe to state his case to the brethren. Smythe retorted: "You have the letter, Mr. Beecher; that will speak for itself." Here the interview ended.

The Council reassembled at 2 o'clock. After prayer Shearman resumed his address, and again took up the Mutual Council. He referred to the objections made by Plymouth Church to the selections of Churches made by Mrs. Moulton, and to the fact that the Church Committee had made a distinct statement of their willingness to go on with the Council if their objections were disregarded. He then took up the question of the Church's course in relation to the charges against its pastor. He declared that the Church and the enemies of Mr. Beecher had given no weight to the charge, but had set up presumption of guilt, and called upon Mr. Beecher to prove his innocence. He then began to comment on circumstances attending the first publication of the scandal in 1873.

When Mr. Shearman concluded, different members of the committee were examined in relation to question contained in the letter missive, and Dr. Bacon submitted to a lengthy examination regarding the meaning of the phrase, "roll of the Church," and the course pursued when a member's name was dropped, after which the Council adjourned till 7:30 in the evening.

At the night session Rosalier W. Raymond read a long statement addressed to Theodore Tilton. Rev. Timothy Dwight, of New Haven, desired to know whether the pastor selected the committee to try his own case, before or after consulting the Examining Committee.

President Porter asked if any one had ever appeared before the Examining Committee with charges against the pastor that would necessitate the going into an investigation, to which Mr. Shearman replied that they had not done so within the past week.

In answer to the question, "Were the brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Tilton invited to testify before the Committee?" Mr. Shearman said that the brother had been invited, but did not appear, and that the Committee had no intimation that his wife knew anything about the case.

Mr. Havens, of Boston, wished to know if it was not a fact that some one had committed a great crime, and that the pastor was making endeavors to cover up the crime, and was it not true that he was anxious to keep it from the world?

Mr. Beecher replied in person, and said that he was ready to be tried by any tribunal, and denied that he had ever said that he objected to be tried by people who did not have the same belief with himself in regard to future punishment. In conclusion he said, the idea that I was hiding anything for the sake of generosity—I am a very generous man; I have a great deal of generosity, but I am not a fool.

These remarks elicited applause from the audience and several members of the Council.

Dr. Bacon propounded a number of questions, which gave rise to considerable argument, after which the Council adjourned.

ADVISING PLYMOUTH.

Wise Men Considering a Matter that Has Been Mentioned Before.
By American Press Association to the STAR.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 17.—The session of the Congregational Advisory Council was resumed yesterday morning, being called to order by the Moderator, Rev. Dr. Bacon. The first half hour was devoted to religious services. Rev. Dr. Bell offered two resolutions, the first being, "It is our firm belief that Rev. Henry Ward Beecher is innocent of the sins and crimes publicly laid to his charge;" and the second, "That they regarded with admiration the devotion of the members to their pastor."

The resolutions caused quite an excitement.

Dr. Bacon said this subject was not under consideration and not before the Council.

The bill urged that they be considered. A point of order was made that this discussion was out of order.

Mr. Bell said if they did not consider this question they might as well not have assembled.

The question of referring the matter to the Business Committee was put and all voted aye except Bell.

The letter of Deacon West, protesting against the Council in spending their time in trivial matters and leaving out the question of Mr. Beecher's guilt or innocence, was read and referred to the Committee on the fourth question which relates to West's case.

Thos. G. Shearman then ascended the platform to make an additional statement of the case of the Church. He first spoke of the criticisms of the press on the course of Plymouth Church and to incorrect reports published about the Church, then passed to the question of dismissing members and other theological matters.

He reviewed the case of Mrs. Moulton, of the attempt to have a Mutual Council, and explained how the Council fell through. He said Plymouth Church had done its best to secure a Mutual Council, but it was essential that the Council should be impartial. The present Council was at liberty to examine everything in the history of the Church. The question was before them in the broadest possible form. The Church wished the fullest advice of the Council as to its manner of dealing with the charges against its pastor, and whether any further investigation was necessary. A recess was then taken till 2 o'clock.

During the recess an extraordinary scene occurred before the Council. The arrival of Professor Smythe, of Andover, Massachusetts, who addressed Beecher, inquiring whether a letter had been received from Professor Phelps, of Andover.
